Introduction

April was National and Montana Native Plant Month.

The Montana Native Plant Society (MNPS) Landscaping and Revegetation Committee presents this partial list of Montana businesses selling Montana native plants. Native Plant Sources that are members of MNPS are highlighted in this document. Thank you for your support. MNPS does not specifically endorse or certify the providers listed here. At the same time, MNPS strongly encourages the public to support businesses that sell native plants and to ask businesses that do not, to become part of the “Plant Native Now” initiative. MNPS encourages all nurseries, garden centers, and landscape companies that do business in the State of Montana to offer Montana native plant species plants and seeds. MNPS challenges the nursery industry to better educate the public on the important role that Montana native plant species play in the landscape environments which MNPS has been advocating for over three decades.

It is important to try and find the origin of the plants and seeds being sold as many of them may come from areas not adapted to the Montana climate. MNPS has tried to identify sources as much as possible in this document. This guide is meant to be a living document and will be updated regularly to keep it current. Please don’t print this document as it will be updated regularly. Addresses, corrections, and comments are welcome. Please send comments to the MNPS Landscaping and Revegetation Committee at P. O. Box 8783 or email: Patrick Plantenberg at m2andp2@mt.net or call Patrick at 406-431-4615.

Appendix A

Seed Certification
by
Mark Majerus

In both the United States and Canada, commercially grown or wildland collected seed can be ‘certified’ to guarantee species identity, origin, purity, and quality. Standards for each plant species are established and administered by the Association of Official Seed Certifying Agencies (AOSCA) and seed testing is standardized and regulated by the Association of Official Seed Analysts (AOSA).

Plants can be released to the public in the following ways:

Cultivar (cultivated variety): This type of release involves the testing of plant material at multiple sites, over multiple years and for 2 or more generations to ensure that they maintain their distinguishing morphological and physiological features from one generation to the next. A Cultivar release takes between 10-20 years of testing and research. Once a Cultivar is released to the commercial seed industry there are four levels of seed or propagules (vegetative).

- Breeders: Maintained by releasing organization (Plant Materials Center, Universities, Private Seed Growers). This is genetically closest to the original collection. This is maintained by the releasing agency to establish Foundation fields.
- Foundation: This is the progeny of Breeders seed and is the seed that is made available to commercial growers to produce Registered and Certified seed.
- Registered: The progeny of Foundation seed which is available to commercial growers and at their discretion can sell Registered seed to other growers or down-grade it to Certified seed for sale. Because of genetic instability some species are not allowed a Registered class to limit generations beyond the original germplasm.
- Certified: The progeny of Foundation or Registered seed and the product that is sold to the consumer. In Montana all levels of Certification are monitored by the Montana Seed Certification Service (at Montana State University-Bozeman), a division of the Montana Seed Growers Association.

Foundation, Registered and Certified seed must meet species specific standards for germination, purity, other crops and off-types, and weed seed. All Native Cultivar released in Montana have their origin in Montana or Wyoming.

Pre-Varietal germplasm: To meet the increasing demand for site-specific germplasm and to shorten the testing and development time. The Pre-Varietal release mechanism allows for the release and certification of germplasm, but with less confidence in the range of adaptation, genetic stability, and hardiness. The generations beyond the original germplasm (G₀) are expressed as G₁, G₂, G₃, etc. Releases vary by the extent of testing and are certifiable by Seed Certification Agencies.

- Source Identified: Seed or plants that are from a native population occupying a specific geographical area. Seed for commercial sale can be directly harvested from the native stand or reestablished under cultivated conditions. The State Certification Agency will verify species identification, approximate geographical origin and whether seed meets species specific germination and purity standards. (1 to 2 years release time)
- Selected Class: Seed or plants that have been through some testing and exhibit some desirable superior traits when compared with other accessions of the same species. The field performance has not been fully tested at multiple sites and there is no proof that desirable characteristics will be expressed in subsequent generations. (4-6 years release time)

Tested Class: Seed or plants that have been through additional testing at more than one site and for more than one generation. The extent of the ‘area of adaptation’ may not be known. (7-9 years release time)

Pre-varietal germplasm release material is usually given a descriptive name related to the original collection source, identifies the level of testing, and must be accompanied by the word ‘germplasm’. For example: High Plains Selected Class germplasm Sandberg bluegrass. However, this labeling is rarely used and often referred to by its origin site descriptive name, much like Cultivars. Ask about method of release.

Canada has adopted a similar Pre-Varietal Release mechanism, but they refer to them as Eco-Vars (Eco-logical Var-iety). They also refer to the generations as G₀, G₁, G₂, etc.

All seed sold in Montana can have no more than 2% weed seed and can’t have any ‘restricted’ weed seed, such as Canada thistle, spotted knapweed, leafy spurge, etc. If there is not Variety name on the seed lot you wish to purchase, or it is listed as VNS (Variety Not Stated), then it is imperative that you question the Seed Dealer as to the origin and quality of the seed lot in question. It is best to buy seed on a PLS (Pure Live Seed) basis. This is the amount of live seed (% purity X % germination). Otherwise, you are buying some non-viable seed and trash when you pay by the bulk weight.
